October 6 – 7, 2016

Kyiv - 2016

Dear colleagues!

We invite you to take part in the roundtable academic discussion on the topic:

Paradigm Works in the Modern Discourse of Economic Theory devoted to the 240th anniversary of A. Smith's "The Wealth of Nations" and the 80th anniversary of J. M. Keynes's "The General Theory".

The discussion is encouraged in the following areas:

- role of the paradigm works in the development of economic theory;
- ideological value, philosophical and methodological significance of the works of Adam Smith and John Maynard Keynes: retrospective, modernity and prospects;
- Keynes vs. Smith: ideology of economic liberalism from classics to non-classics;
- "market and state" dilemma: old and new meanings and evaluation approaches in the heterogeneous background of modern economic theory;
- economic theory and economic reality: from the normative economic theory to economic policy;
- economic welfare of nations through the prism of epochs;
- Adam Smith and John Maynard Keynes as historians of economic science: critical analysis of the development of economic thought;
- orthodox and unorthodox interpretation of Smithianism and Keynesianism in the international and domestic economic science;
- ideological and theoretical heritage of Adam Smith and John Maynard Keynes in the professional teaching of economic disciplines;
- heuristic potential of the classical economic heritage in the modern scientific discourse.

Participants: scholars, teachers, graduate and undergraduate students and all interested parties.
